

Jeppe Mølgaard Thomsen

Journalist

I have experience as a Journalist, Social Media Manager, Content Creator and Video Journalist from the world of research and technology. I have worked with startups and major tech companies where I have translated complex technology into captivating and visual stories, written a myriad of web content as well as planned and executed major communication efforts across social media. I am specialised in brand storytelling and I believe that all external communication should have a purpose that is grounded in a company's values and mission statement.
